YEARBOOK OF

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY • WASHINGTON, D.C.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON

UNIVERSITY... '61

To reach out and capture some of the G.W. atmosphere—the intense quiet of an exam room, the noisy fellowship in the Student Union, the tired cold of the winter evening air, and the fresh aliveness ushered in with spring, is the goal of the CHERRY TREE. We have endeavored to capture college life in pictures and words so it may be kept forever. We sincerely hope that within these pages you will find George Washington University as you have found it for the past four years.

"Nothing worthwhile comes without a price."

WILLIAM DALY.

Senior Leaders Comment . . .

"Student activities are a vital part of a well rounded education. Regardless of the student's field of study, he must learn to deal with people; this can not be learned in the classrooms or in textbooks. Student activities provide such needed education and integrate the student with the problems and realities of his society."

CHARLIE MAYS

"Participation in Student affairs and activities can provide that added dimension of learning which makes the difference between a university education and four years spent in a public library."

HAROLD BOERLIN

"The personal gains to be achieved through participation in student activities are indeed numerous and varied. They include such rewarding experiences as the satisfaction of a goal fulfilled, the prestige of personal achievement, and the thanks of fellow workers and interested onlookers. But by far the greatest benefit to be gained from student activities comes from working with people . . . People—not dances or publications or meetings—are the heart of student activities. Appreciation and understanding of people are the remuneration for service in activities."

STANLEY HECKMAN

"The lack of an effective means of communication often exaggerates our problems."

BETTY ROBINSON

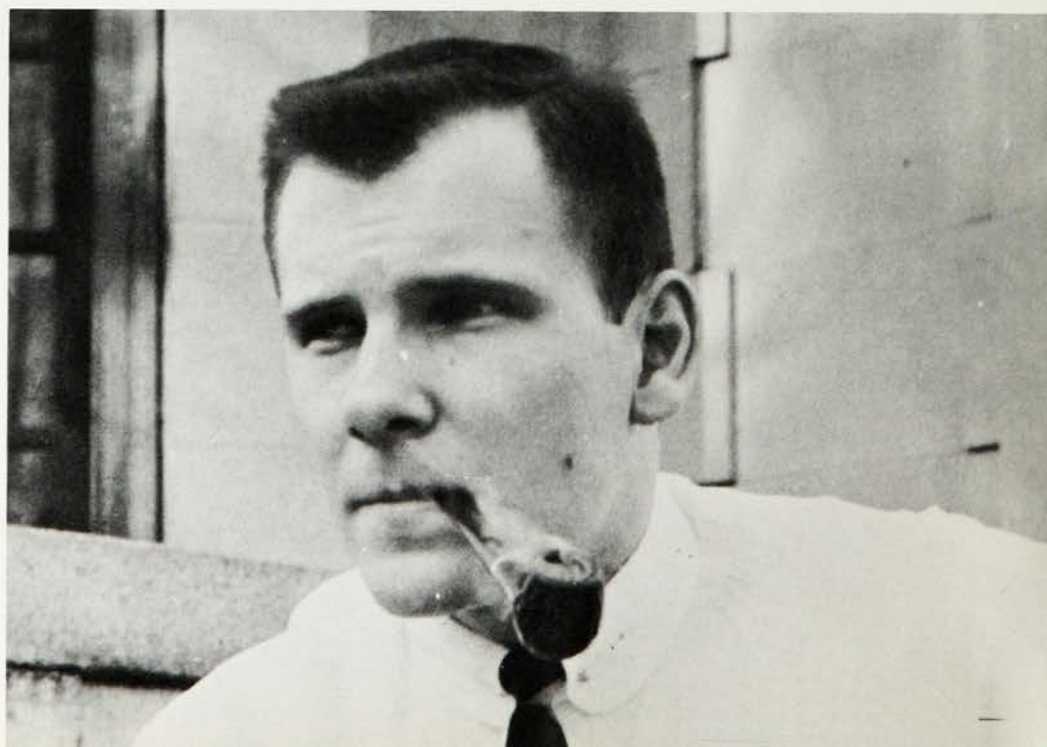

In retrospect, the four years spent at George Washington University have been to me an important milestone in the formation of a set of values and ideals which I will carry with me through life. Through the great variety of activities offered here, I have benefited by participation in school functions, and what is much more important, by the opportunity to learn through working in cooperation with other students.

PETER WASILEWSKI

"Communication is difficult. . ."

ROGER STAURT

. . . on Student Activities

"My participation in student activities has been one of the most rewarding areas of my college life. From activities I have gained an ability to organize my time and efforts, self-confidence, and most important of all an understanding of people."

PATRICIA GILLAM

"Reward does not come from the title but is the experience which responsibility and effort provide."

LOOKING BACK

Could y'all help me?

HERE WE GO AGAIN

It's hard to get started

It's September again with its invigorating sunshiny days reflecting the vibrant colors of the foliage. It's time to start school again—but somehow it's hard to get started. There are a thousand and one things to attend to, but with all the new people to meet and all the old acquaintances to renew, we set everything else aside. It looks as if everyone is moving in! The girls, freshmen and upperclassmen, always return with more clothes and jam-packed suitcases than they will need—but always there is a willing good Samaritan to help out. We're back together once more . . . trying to relive past joys and create new excitement . . . all of us vowing to study harder and make better grades.

I'd ask her for a date but I can't see her face!

SWINGING INTO THE SEMESTER

Now that rush is over we can take time out to enjoy life. The weather is a little brisk . . . we snuggle up with our date at football games . . . party-hopping after the game is fun . . . and we can always study Sunday night for that Monday morning quiz. Whoa! Don't forget—mid-terms are right around the corner . . . then there's Homecoming . . . and the Goat Show . . . and Christmas is is almost upon us. Here we go again!

FLAKE-OUTS OF 1960

The plague of mid-terms cut a wide swath through our ranks. Students sacked out anywhere and everywhere . . . NoDoz sales went up 500 per cent . . . the foreign legion received several new recruits . . . and everyone lamented about the inhumanity of professors. The worst hangover you can get is a mid-term hangover, and the best cure is to sleep it off. Sweet dreams.

When are these law students going to ask for a date?

A sterling tale of sinister characters involved in a nefarious crime which was plotted by the Student Council in conjunction with members of the Student Bar Association (which means Law School students). Why should anyone want to shoot the handsome and debonaire Charlie Mays?

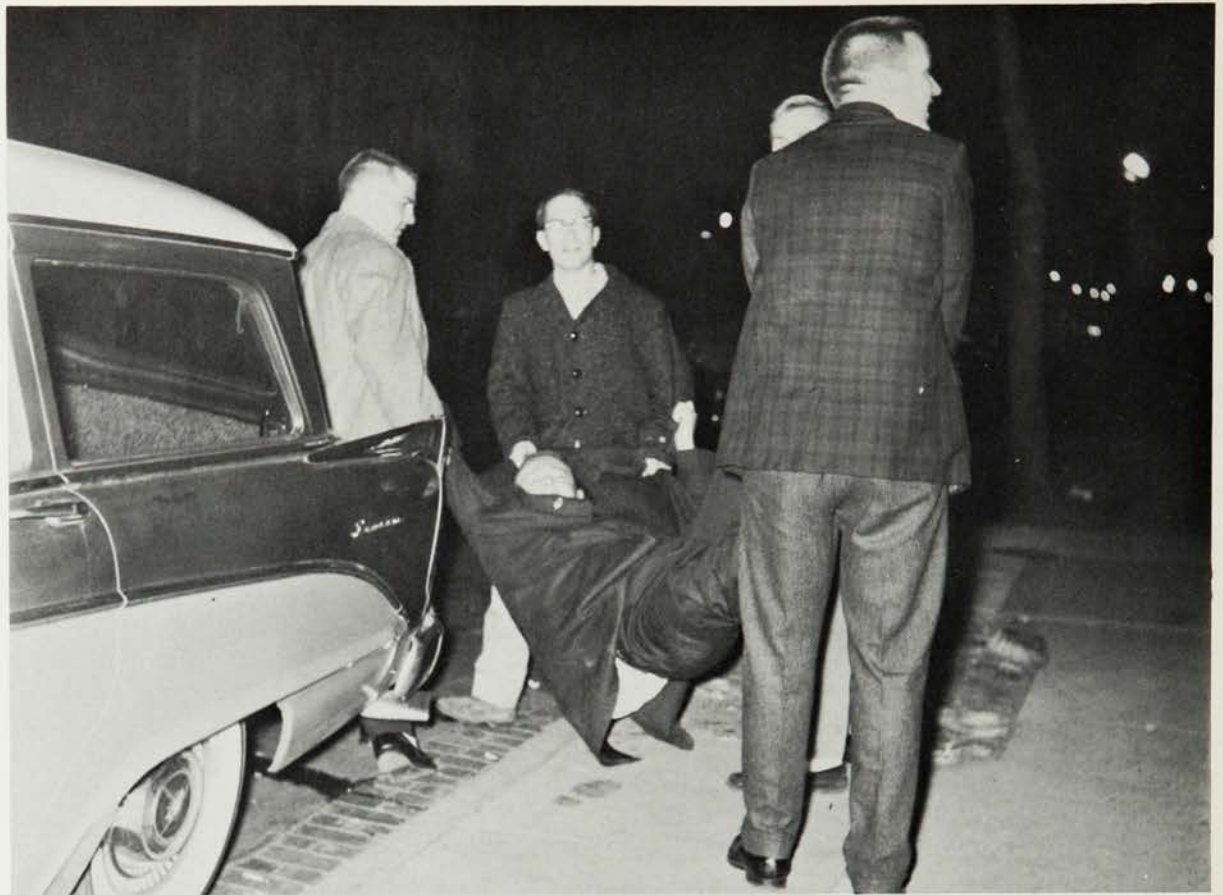

From the opposite point of view, why shouldn't Charlie Mays be shot? Was it murder or self-defense—or just plain disgust. The case ended in a situation far worse and more serious than with which it began . . . the victim married the defendant and now she is Mrs. Ann Haug Mays.

Live and laugh it up—don't worry about them. Exam time lasts only about a week and exams don't usually take more than an hour or two of your time.

If you take final exams seriously they can cause you trouble . . . you might get ulcers . . . you might create a breach in your friendship with professors . . . and if you do make good grades, you will lose all of your friends and make professors suspicious of you. Relax, go to a movie or to Brownleys. Besides, you can't beat the curve.

SNOW TIME

It changes the temperature, the appearance of our environment and the way we do things. Thanks to the snow we had a brief respite from finals and a chance to do a little more cramming. Girls naturally felt colder and someone had to keep them warm. Southern belles who had never seen snow before shrieked with childish delight, while fraternity pledges groaned about all the shoveling they would have to do (somehow they never got around to doing it, though). Students and professors were stranded in the city and cars were abandoned for days. Above all, the snow was always a good excuse for a party and a hot buttered rum punch.

THE GWU STORY

The story of the typical

GWU student from 1734 to 1961

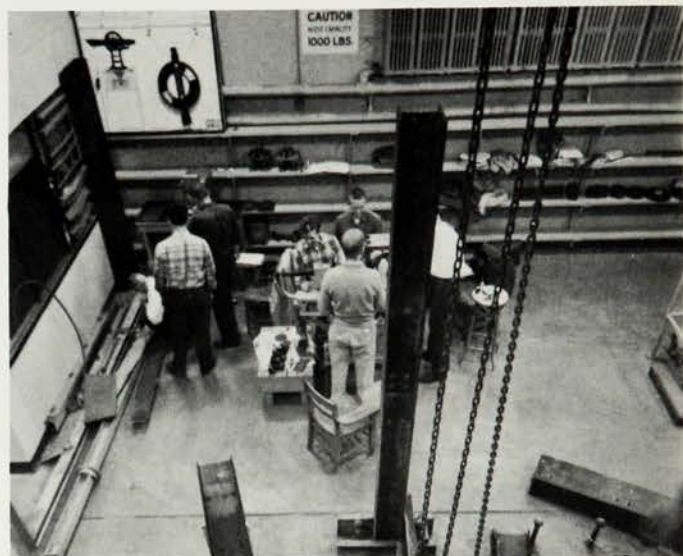

The typical Tim or Thelma Lackluster stalking the GWU campus is in reality the prodigy of some millionaire, or ambassador, or even of the President of the United States. Secrecy and mystery are the by-word. Famous people have come and gone without any fanfare. The faces remain the same, only the names change.

First year:
Entrance exams were tough.

Students practiced before going to the cashier.

"How much is the second book?"

"Don't cry honey, we'll raise next semester's tuition."

Botany field trips were always fun

Third year:
The informality in class was relaxing.

Our first home—the Student Union. Everyone waited in long lines for the good food.

The Student Banking Service was always crowded.

Second year:
Some facilities were limited.

but the faculty took a deep interest in new students . . .

and exceptional students impressed them.

The Business School offered practical training.

Engineering School scene: "Hey
Orville, are you or Wilbur going to fly it?"

You made a 2.0 or else!

Fourth Year:
Idealism carried us far

Some organizations had unique qualifications

After exams, taps were played on the "glass trumpet."

Upper classmen helped direct freshmen activities

You'll never know, son, how good it feels to get out of the Junior College.

Seventh Year:
An administrative view of students getting diplomas

Scholarship fraternities had high standards

Fifth Year:
Eventually you became a leader on campus

Sixth Year:
Seniors concentrated on their studies

As a BMOC you dated campus queens

Graduation—always a momentous occasion

Election to Mortar Board is the highest honor a senior woman can attain in her college career. When a girl is tapped for Mortar Board in the spring she is given due recognition as a leader in campus activities and service as well as a student of high scholastic achievement.

Mortar Board sponsors the annual Orphans Christmas Party, university lectures, and Tassels.

Omicron Delta Kappa

Omicron Delta Kappa is one of the honoraries for which all University men strive to be selected. Membership in this honorary denotes that an individual has excelled in both scholarship and leadership. Students as well as outstanding members of the faculty administration and prominent businessmen are tapped at Homecoming and May Day each year. This national organization truly recognizes the deserving men on George Washington's campus and in the university area.

Tassels

Tassels, an honorary for Sophomore women, has a dual purpose—to promote the maintenance of high scholastic achievement and the function of service to the university and student body through activities and service projects. Tassels taps its members early in the fall and initiates them in the spring. Besides participating in numerous campus activities, Tassels' pledges have service projects such as making scrapbooks for the VA hospital and wrapping Christmas presents for orphans. At their meeting the girls hear student leaders speak in an effort to better acquaint them with university student life.

A healthy Q.P.I. plus lots of coffee, "no doz," and sheer hard work, can get any freshman girl into Alpha Lambda Delta. These ambitious freshmen have achieved a 3.5 Q.P.I. in their first semester at G.W. Many of these girls look forward not only to university scholarships, but also to extra-curricular honors. Here we find our future Phi Beta Kappas and Mortar Board members.

The members of Sigma Tau, a national honorary, are selected from the top third of the junior and senior engineering classes. These dedicated engineers use their time most productively by maintaining a high Q.P.I. in their difficult curriculum, and providing tutoring, free of charge, to any engineering students who needs their assistance. Members of this most worthwhile honorary are well on their way to successful careers.

Aesculapian Society

GW's Aesculapian pre-medical society is a relatively new honorary on campus. The purpose of the society is to familiarize pre-med students with the career they will be entering upon graduation from Medical School. Field trips and noted speakers help the members expand their knowledge and enjoy the society while learning.

Sigma Epsilon is the Engineering School's Phi Beta Kappa. The group is composed of the top one-eighth of the Junior class and the top one-fifth of the senior class. This honorary, formed only last May, strives to promote interest in the school and the profession of engineering. The group has an award for the outstanding Sophomore and is publishing a code of ethics to be displayed in Thompkins Hall.

Alpha Pi Epsilon is an honorary organization for Home Economics majors who have achieved high scholastic success in all of their courses. They are welfare minded and each year select service projects beneficial to the community. Outside of their regular projects accomplished throughout the year, the group holds an annual Founders' Day Luncheon in March.

A national honorary of graduates and undergraduates in the field of education, Pi Lambda Theta is dedicated to the goals of high scholarship and superior education. Familiar activities include research and lectures by well-known speakers from the field of education. Activities of Pi Lambda Theta are publicized through a local newsletter and a national magazine.

Gate and Key

Dedicated to achievement among fraternity men, the Gate and Key Society spends each year in the pursuit of fraternal excellence. Among its annual service projects are an ice cream social for the University ladies, the presentation of the Order of the Lacy Garter to an outstanding co-ed, and the Ocean City Beach-fest. Gate and Key members traditionally entertain at Strong and Madison Halls after their meetings, and these evenings are eagerly awaited by musically-inclined inmates and University policemen. Tapping and initiation are held twice a year, at Homecoming and the IFC Formal, when the aims and ideals of the Society are most nearly fulfilled by the Greek population at large.

ORGANIZATIONS

Go ahead and jump, We still have a voting majority

The core of the University's student activity program is our Student Council which coordinates and regulates the various campus activities. From the spring campaigning for office to the last of the school events, the traditional May Day, the members of the Student Council are active in all manifestations of student life.

The first of the Council's sponsored events is the Summer Carnival, which is followed by elaborate planning for the Homecoming Weekend in November. Holiday Season festivities follow with the now annual Hi-Ball ending winter's sponsored events. In spring the Mock Trial and May Day occupy the Council calendar, followed by the campaigning for office and the whole mess starts all over again.

This past year the Council initiated the student Book Exchange and Student Directory, two well-appreciated services. The Charlie Byrd and Moss Allison concerts in Lisner Auditorium were efforts by the Student Council to initiate a cultural program and were met with success.

Student government's judicial branch, the Student Life Committee, is composed of six student representatives automatically chosen because of the campus positions they occupy, and five faculty members. Despite the somber expressions worn for the photograph the group is really quite human and sociable, (notice Dr. K's coffee on the floor!). At monthly meetings throughout the year the committee hears and determines all appeals by any recognized campus organization or individual. Student Life also selects the University's outstanding seniors to be members of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

This year saw the beginning of a new campus political party, the Students for Better Government. The SBG aims to bring the student body to a better awareness of campus politics and to nominate qualified students for positions on the student council. By selecting responsible people to govern the students, the party intends to aid both the student body and the University itself. The formation of this new party shows an increase in the interest taken by students in their own government.

In their bi-monthly meetings, the members of G.W.'s Spanish Club attempt to strengthen good relations with Latin American students. Informed lecturers and occasional movies prove both educational and entertaining to the group. Here, too, members can get together to practice their Spanish with native Latin Americans. The Spanish club is one good example of the cosmopolitan make-up of G.W.

Situated on the edge of the campus, Adams Hall holds eight floors of socially oriented G.W. boys. The Hall has exchanges with the girls' dormitories and also holds its own dances throughout the year. The more athletic of its residents participate in our intramural athletic program and often make a fine showing. The Hall hires buses for the convenience of its residents who need transportation to Colonial games which helps school spirit grow. The dormitory also elects a council which regulates and enforces the rules within the Hall.

Strong Hall

Strong Hall girls have many things in common—being stuck in the forever-broken-down elevator, appearance before the dorm council, midnight fire-drills, signing out and forgetting to sign in, and of course, NO-DOZ. Holiday parties, faculty teas, semester open houses and birthday parties keep Strong girls socially active. Constantly occupied date rooms in the lobby and a buzzing switchboard testify to its many campus beauties.

Madison Hall

Situated between Welling Hall and the Engineering

School is Madison Hall with all its popular girls.

The dorm, lit up like a Christmas tree during finals and dark indeed on those big weekends, proves that

Madison girls participate in all forms of social activities. Madison also boasts many campus Queens and Sweethearts. Regulated by their dormitory council, the girls observe the "When in doubt, sign out" law very devoutly; isn't that true, Freshmen?

The main aid to incoming freshmen and transfer women is the Big Sister organization. Big Sisters write to new students before they come to GW to give any advanced information that might be helpful. Then they greet their little Sisters upon arrival and introduce them to GW student life. The orientation program includes such events as Coffee Hours, nosebag lunches in the Union, Tips 'n Tea with Topnotchers, and the Big Sis—Old Men Mixer. Big Sisters help their little sisters with registration and social activities at the beginning of school and continue to lend a helping hand for as long as needed throughout the year.

The Student National Education Association stimulates timely group discussions of both the advantages and problems involved in the field of education. Informed guest speakers bring the education majors up to date on the career of their choice and help the members to take a professional outlook toward the future. Through the organization, the members can evaluate various teaching theories and new concepts in the field before entering their work upon graduation. With a balanced program in mind, the SNEA alternates one business meeting with one social meeting a month.

Much hard work and creative thinking goes into each edition of the Potomac, our literary magazine now in it's third year. Already a well accepted part of the University's journalistic circle, the magazine receives numerous essays, short stories, poems and sketches from students. The staff of the Potomac is constantly searching for material of artistic and literary value from student artists.

The wandering corridor leading to the beautifully decorated offices of the University Hatchet finds many young journalists scurrying to meet the everlasting weekly deadlines. Well scrutinized editorials, sports commentaries, campus news items, and popular features including Auntie Hester's "Foggy Bottom," combine to make up our Hatchet. The Tomahawk, an April Fool's edition, is eagerly awaited each year. What the clever staff comes up with in this edition is always remembered by the G-Wites who catch the subtle humor shown throughout.

Women's Athletic Association

These well-rounded girls co-ordinate all women's athletics at G.W., and numerous they are. Hockey, tennis, rifle, bowling, basketball, badminton, softball, and swimming cover almost any sports interest of University women. Because of awards given to outstanding athletes, keen competition among players is evident. This keen competition is overshadowed only by the emphasis on good sportsmanship.

International Student Society

The International Students Society is the organization whose primary aim is to integrate foreign students with student life at G.W. It provides the main center of social life for our foreign students and introduces them to various cultures the world over. Every foreign student is automatically a member of the society of which one-fourth of the membership is American. The American membership is made up of students who have applied to and have been selected by any executive officer of the organization. The main social activities of the society are cultural movies, lectures, dances and an annual Christmas party.

Please hurry up—we get refreshments as soon as this is over!

"Hail to the Buff, Hail to the Blue." The Pep Band members hear this familiar tune in their sleep. The lively members of our band are found faithfully lending spirit to each Colonial contest. Open to all student musicians, the band claims a few ladies among its members to add some charm to the red-blazered group. Within the band is a combo, dedicated to the furtherance and protection of Dixieland Jazz, which entertains at numerous Lisner festivities.

When combined with the Pep Band these lively majorettes lend a sprightly enthusiasm to Colonial games. Armed with their batons, the girls give expert performances to entertain G.W.'s sports fans. A fairly new addition to the University, the majorettes in their new uniforms have now become a part of our Colonial spirit.

On May Day, the Board awards trophies to the sororities, fraternities, and independent groups who have accumulated the most Booster points, earned throughout the year in various competitive pep events. Also presented is the Andy Davis Award, given to that individual judged to have done the most to promote school spirit.

Perfect little ladies are we . . .

Satisfied audiences testify to the excellence of G.W.'s stage productions. Only devoted hard work involving long hours of practice can produce the results which are visible with each performance given in Lisner by G.W.'s young actors. Any and every student interested in any phase of theater production is welcomed by our dramatic associations.

Back stage workers receive as much experience and satisfaction as do the "stars" of the shows. From the last curtain call for this year's Homecoming production of "The Boyfriend" the students eagerly await the next dramatic production.

Glee Club and Troubadors

Would you mind repeating that last verse ladies?

The Troubadors about to travel—this year to Labrador.

Under the direction of "Doc" Harmon, the University Glee Club and well known Troubadours entertain far and wide. Members are selected early in the spring and fall semesters to allow practice time for the group's numerous performances. This year the Troubadours started the year off on a high note by performing at Radio City Music Hall in late summer. Held over by popular demand, they missed the regular fall registration but received "compensation" with a feature write-up in Look Magazine. Christmas found them traveling once again—this time to Labrador to entertain the troops. Throughout the year they are ever willing to give request performances in the Washington area. The entire Glee Club presented Handel's "Messiah" once again this Christmas for the benefit of the University's music lovers. Attracting many freshmen among its newcomers, the Glee Club looks forward to many more successful seasons with its beloved "Doc."

The Religious Council is composed of two delegates from each of the University's ten religious organizations. Under the guidance of Dr. Joseph Sizoo the council co-ordinates all campus religious life. During freshman orientation week the Council holds a reception for all incoming students to familiarize them with the groups and advisors of their faith. Throughout the year weekly chapel and religion-in-life week are council undertakings.

Religious Council

A well-known organization on campus is the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation for Jewish students. Meeting on Fridays, the group has regular worship services and sponsors a popular lecture series. Hillel is welfare oriented as well as religiously active.

Hillel contributes to the intellectual atmosphere of the University by sponsoring a writing contest open to any student. One of the major social events of the spring calendar is the Hillel Ball O' Fire where male representatives of many University groups compete for the title of Mr. Apollo.

Engineer's Council

The main governing body of the engineering school, the Engineers' Council, serves its students as a liaison between the faculty and the large body of engineers. Journalistically active, the council is the Board of Publishers for the school magazine, Mecheleciv. It also publishes a handbook for new students, the Engineer's Guide." Socially the scholastic minded engineers sponsor a number of events such as the Parent's Day, Engineers' Mixer, and the Engineers' Banquet and Ball in the spring. Along with encouraging participation in all University activities, the Engineers' Council also maintains an engineers' hangout, the Davis-Hodgkins House.

The electrical engineers of G.W. have their own organization in AIEE-IRE, which stands for the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers. Both groups, joined together, have the primary aim of improving the theories and practice in their respective fields. Monthly meetings are devoted to viewing films, listening to lectures, and taking field trips to engineering companies which may be the future employers of some of the group's members. On the social side, the group manages to hold stag parties as well as regular meetings.

Watched over by the Engineers' Council, Mecheleciv puts out six fine editions each year. Another feature is the "Mech Miss" section which spotlights campus beauties in each issue and promotes good relations between engineers and our co-eds.

Fight!

After a hot summer of practicing for the football season, G.W.'s eight vivacious cheerleaders and two yell-leaders kept Colonial supporters cheering enthusiastically from the fall's first football game until G.W. captured the Southern Conference Basketball Title in March. Practice sessions and such conditions as rain-soaked hair and sub-zero temperatures are forgotten when Colonials catch the spirit and really cheer their team. Beside Colonial victories, the 1961 season brought a uniform change for the girls—the adoption of navy pleated skirts.

Cadet Staff

"To provide military and academic education and training to University students and to select and motivate these students for service in the United States Air Force"—is the mission of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps. Under the direction of Professor of Air Science, Lt. Colonel Edward M. Wall, intensive training programs are conducted both in the Air Science classroom and on the Leadership Laboratory drill field. The AFROTC student gains a working knowledge of Air Force operations in his four years of classroom work. On the Leadership Laboratory field, the student learns the basic principles of drill and then advances to the responsibilities of command. In addition to formal academic classes and sessions on the field, the Cadet Corps participates in such local parades as the National Cherry Blossom Festival and the Inaugural Parade. Cadets also take part in the University Intramural Athletic Program and various other campus activities. Placing first in the 1960 Homecoming Float Parade was a highlight of the Corps' extracurricular activities. Cadets' social events include the Annual Military Ball where the AFROTC Queen is presented. During the year, flight orientation trips in the Washington area are offered as well as trips to distant Air Force bases. There are two national military honoraries for the G.W. Cadet Corps. The Carl Spaatz Squadron of the Arnold Air Society gives recognition to those cadets demonstrating outstanding leadership potential. Football Season

Colonial rooters were treated to a noticeably different football season. The victories were sweet, especially to the players who had experienced only one win in nine games last year. But no one enjoyed the victories more than Bill Elias, the Colonial spark-plug. In his first year as the G.W. coach and a college head coach, he instilled into the Colonials his own personal brand of confidence and brashness and molded the boys into a winning team. The embryonic Colonials took tough lumps from Florida University in the opener, losing 30-7.

An indication of Colonial "fight" was shown in the next game when they reclaimed a lead from The Citadel and won 19-14. In the following two games it appeared that dismal pre-season predictions might become facts. G.W. led William and Mary 9-0 but lost 19-9. Against V.M.I., G.W.'s 10-0 lead was erased and they lost again, 34-10. An unimpressive

Boston University team held G.W. to a scoreless tie at Boston. The Colonials were in a "now or never" situation. The next challenge was the renown Air Force Academy team. G.W. even toted oxygen tanks and masks to far away Denver to cope with the altitude. But the Colonials needed nothing more than spirit and confidence to burst the game wide open in the final quarter, scoring three touchdowns in a blizzard for a 20-6 win. Homecoming came next, and G.W. toppled Richmond 16-0. Then

V.P.I., a Southern Conference championship contender, fell to the Colonials 21-8 at a G.W. Dad's Day Game. The next week G.W. closed its football season with a 26-0 rampage over West Virginia.

Who won the games?—The team did. Guys with names like Scollick, Barbieri, Wasilewski, Bartnicki, Tricolli and Posati were standouts on defense.

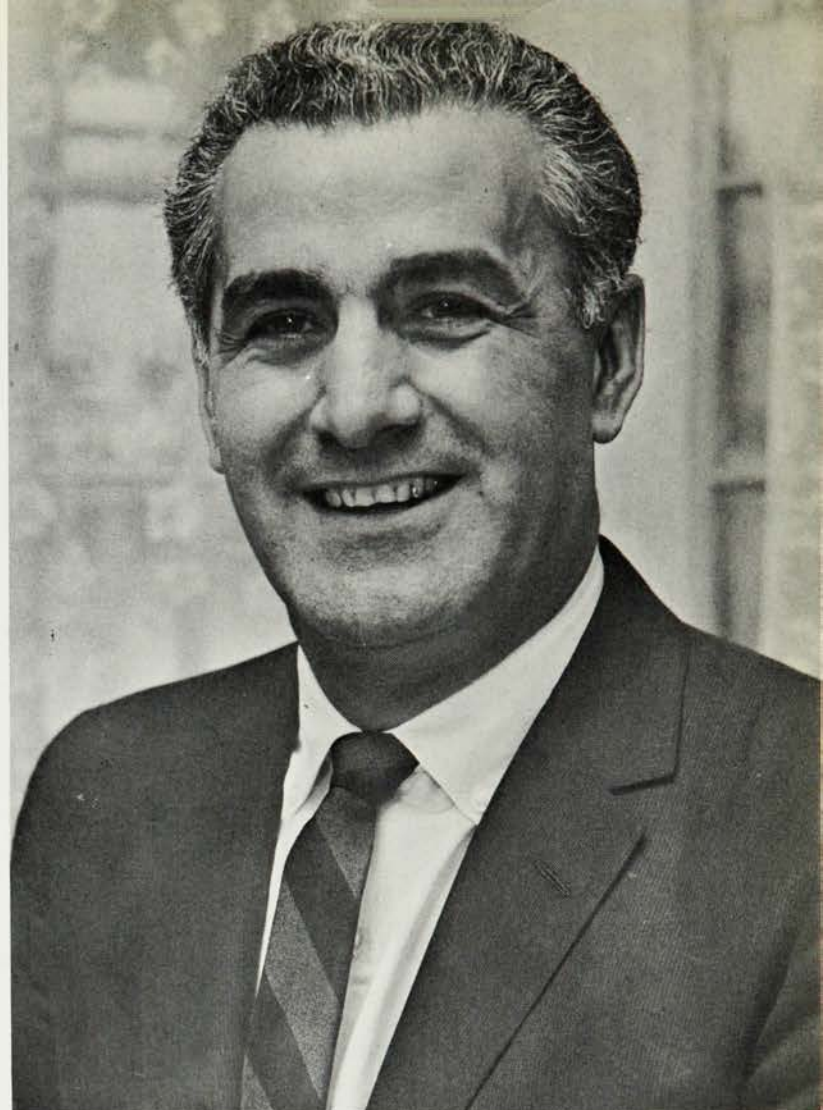

Munley, Anselmi and Guida caught passes. Passaglia, Hardy and Packan quarterbacked the team.

Caracciola, Reed, Fredicine, Haly, Di Simone, Wilt and Corbin all helped tote the ball goalward. It was a great year. Upon Elias' arrival at G.W., he stated that we would "win 'em all." Perhaps few people took him seriously, but fewer yet doubted his sincerity. For a team that sportswriters gave only a chance of winning one game, its surprising season record of five wins, three losses, and one tie is a distinct achievement. As after past seasons, everyone is waiting for next year—but now with great enthusiasm. And so waits the Southern Conference

Coach of the Year, Bill Elias.

------	-----	-----------	----

Hail the Southern Conference champs! The Colonials had a difficult time in eeking out wins and looked dismal at times this past season, but they came out festooned in roses and brought back the first S.C. trophy since 1954.

Perhaps they were tired of being the doormats of the league, but no matter what the reason was, Reinhart and company pounded their way through three Southern Conference Tourney games, winning an ecstatic victory in the finale by tromping William and Mary, 93-82.

In the first game of the Tourney, G.W. was 15 points behind and the Colonials appeared to be playing true to form as they had during the season when they could only win 6 out of 22 games. In the last minutes they spurted from behind to tie the score, and then they beat Virginia Tech in an overtime screecher, 84-83.

The next night they took Citadel, 94-87.

Surprised as the fans and teams they surprised, the Colonials left the tournament city of Richmond. They left jubilantly and they left a bad taste in the mouth of those they defeated. They also left their luck in Richmond.

After having drunk from the brimming cup of victory until they were satiated, their thirst for conquest quenched, the Colonials faded out of the picture in New York.

Reverting to their early season form once more, the Colonials lost to a smaller but more spirited Princeton team, 84-67, in the first round game of the National Collegiate Invitational Tournament.

Most of the season's games were sluggish and indifferent to recall, but G.W. did split its series with Georgetown and Maryland. A feeling of success always seems to prevail when these traditional rivals are defeated.

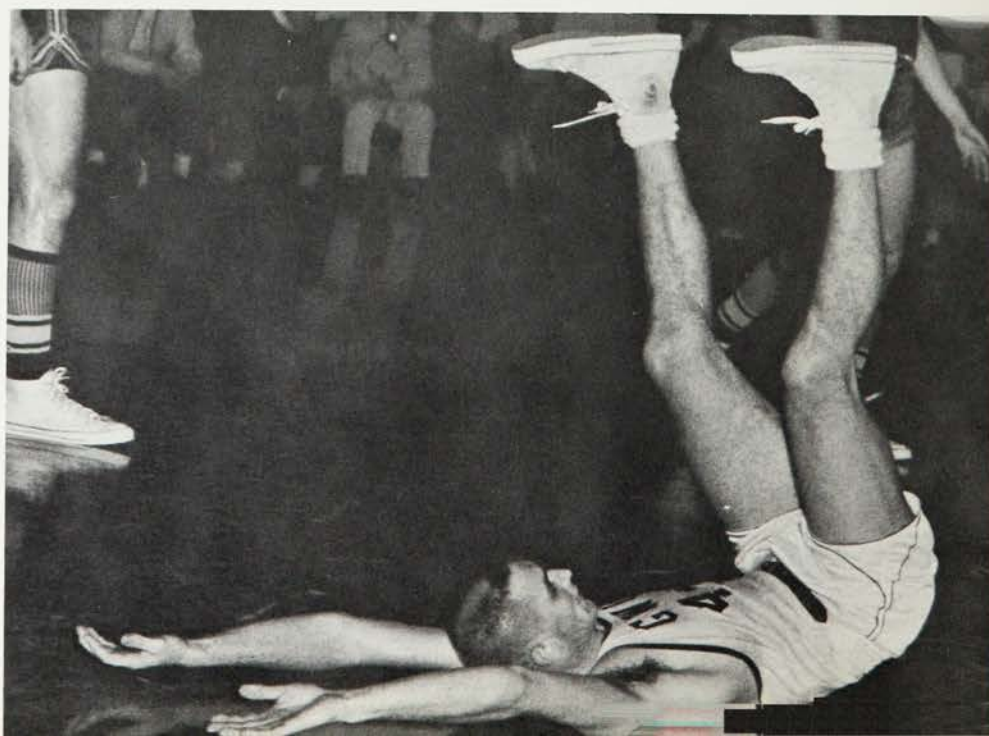

However, the Colonials were done under by opponents of noteworthy and formidable reputation. The Cincinnati "Bearcats," the West Virginia "Mountaineers," and the St. John's "Indians," (of New York, nit Annapolis) all outclassed G.W. But who, what, and where is Marshall College? They spilled the Colonials 78-76 in a "last-second" thriller and were never heard from again.

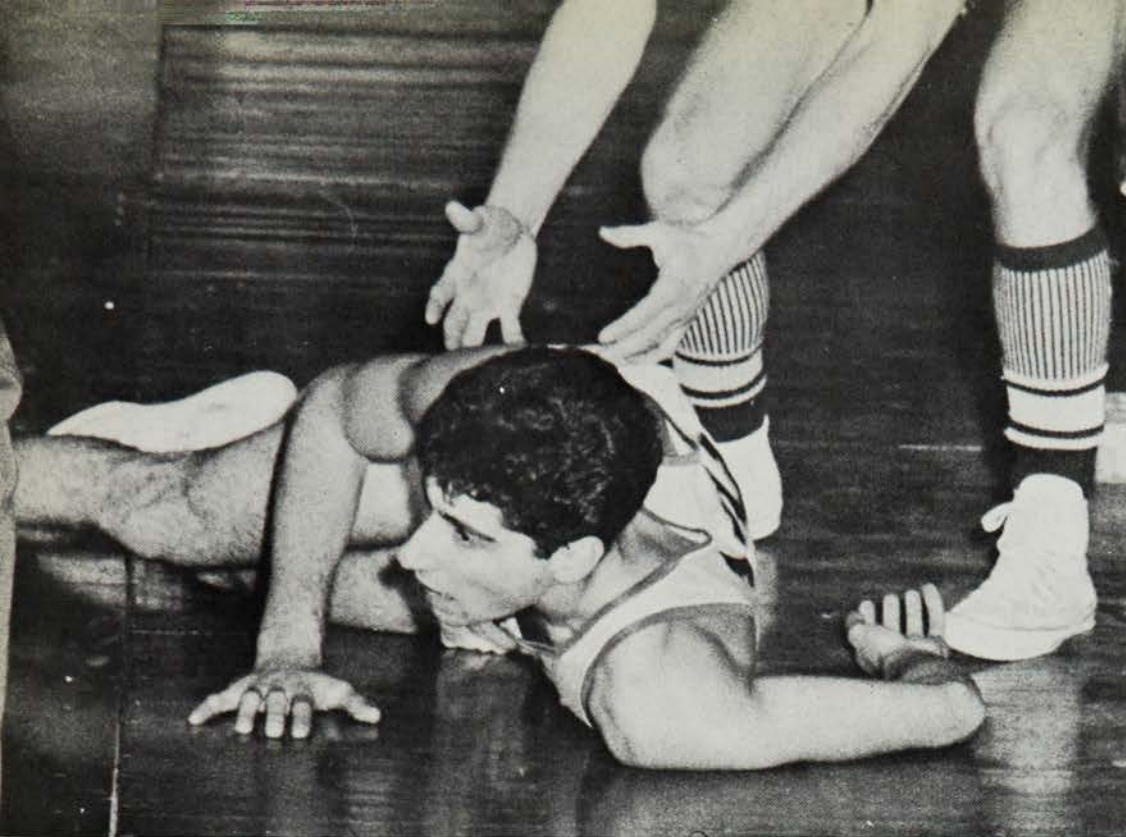

The outstanding players for the Colonials were Jon Feldman, the leading scorer with 531 points and a 20.4 points-per-game average, and Dick Markowitz, a 486 pointer with an 18.6 points-per-game average. Kunze, Norton, and Ingram played well for G.W., as did Don Ardell, the sophomore who broke into the starting line-up near the end of the season.

Feldman set a Southern Conference Tourney scoring record with 45 points in the championship game against William and Mary. Jon also won further honors when he repeated as a member of the UPI "Small-American" basketball team.

It was satisfying to win the Southern Conference, but something seemed missing—that old fire and drive known as spirit!

Now for my next trick . . .

Did you get the license number?

Greek sculpture

A flying deuce.

Golf

After winning three consecutive Southern Conference Golf Championships, Coach Bob Faris' putters finally ended up on the wrong side of the score. The 1960 team, with three of the four starters from the 1959 Championship team, played good golf, but ran into a lot of trouble staying out of the pine forests along the narrow fairways of the North Carolina course. This year they begin with Dartmouth, then its the Greenbriar Invitational Tournament, followed by matches with Colgate, William and Mary, Georgetown, and V.P.I. They close the regular season in a triangular match with Richmond and V.M.I., and a regular match with Washington and Lee.

Crew

Coach Chip Fawcett, starting his second year at the helm of the Colonial crew, is trying to recruit heavier boys to man the shells. Last year's team was twenty pounds lighter than the average college crew team and found the rowing quite rough. Coach Fawcett and his crew have the spirit—maybe with a little more weight they can win some of those close races. The crew will be operating from the new Municipal Boat House at the west end of G St. on the Potomac River. This year they will row against Navy, Clark University, Drexel and Georgetown. They will also meet St. Josephs and Georgetown in a triangular match and take part in the Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia.

Tennis

The fifth consecutive Southern Conference Tennis Championship added another feather to the cap of Coach Bill Shreve. With one of the smallest squads in the Conference, Coach Shreve has managed to get the most out of his boys and year after year topple over the more awesome foes. Back from last year's squad will be the Southern Conference runners-up in the singles event, Jim Whitehead, Ken Silverstone, and Eliot Swift. Mark Sherry, Walt Garfield, and Marty Gersten are promising looking sophomores, and a great portion of the burden will fall upon them. The big events this year will be the annual Cherry Blossom Tournament, the Southern Conference Tournament, and of course the traditional rivalry with Georgetown.

Baseball

The 1960 Colonial baseball team ended the season with ten wins and five losses—all to Southern Conference teams. The Conference record was five and five. Bad weather delayed or eliminated almost all preseason practice and the team took a while to get in shape, especially in getting their infield performance up to par. The team batting average dropped from the previous season's .314 to .240. The big men with the stick were Gatti (.376), Hill (.357), and DeMelfi (.311). Hill and Campana pitched four wins each and Power and Hedetniemi had one each. The Colonials thumped crosstown rival Georgetown twice and split with the West Virginia Mountaineers. Citadel, V.M.I., Richmond and V.P.I. were the other teams to beat the Colonials.

Baseball Coach Reinhart shows them how to do it.

GREEKS

Sororities

Panhellenic Council

Co-ordination and regulation of all inter-sorority activities is the primary purpose of the Panhellenic Council which is composed of the president and one delegate from each sorority and a delegate from the Wandering Greeks. Setting up and enforcing fall and spring rush rules is the largest single endeavor of the Council. Panhel takes its part in fall orientation of incoming women students by sponsoring a barbecue with the I.F.C. and holding open house. Panhel Weekend in the spring is the highlight of the inter-sorority calendar. This exciting weekend includes a Friday night sing competition for the best singing group and director and a Saturday night prom held each year at a prominent hotel in the area.

LEFT TO RIGHT: G. Sullivan, E. Chew, J. Ginberg, S. Flocken, P. Kramer, J. Ormsby, President, P. Tyler, S. Kinneman, M. Duncan, C. Cooper, D. Lund, C. Waters.

LEFT TO RIGHT: M. Kelly, K. Covington, M. Sinkule, L. Rutkin,
P. Poindexter, P. Fortucci, advisor, N. Crimmins, A. Sease,
D. DuBois, A. Clark, S. Goldstein.

Junior Panhellenic Council

Future candidates for delegates to Panhellenic are chosen to represent each sorority pledge class on the junior Panhellenic Council. The Vice-President of the Panhellenic Council serves as their advisor. Junior Panhel was primarily formed to co-ordinate and plan the goat show which is presented by the sorority pledge classes during December. The opportunity to have an important part in the planning of an all-sorority affair in their freshman year gives a delegate of Junior Panhellenic a rung of experience to stand on if she wishes to participate further in student activities.

Most active in promotion of numerous sports activities among sororities is the Inter-Sorority Athletic Board. The group is made up of one delegate from each sorority and the Wandering Greeks.

Recognizing that sportsmanlike competition is furthered by inter-sorority sports competition, the board intends this to promote better relations between sororities. Trophies are presented at the fall W.A.A. Banquet to groups winning in individual sports. The rotating ISAB trophy for the sorority accumulating the most winning points throughout the year is presented at the WAA Dinner in the spring.

Phi Sigma Sigma

It was another year of blown fuses, candle-light, and televueing—with scattered social and academic activity.

The Pledges took second in the Goat Show, while the actives were busy with SBG, the Student Union Board, Big Sis, ISAB, Delphi, and the Marlboro Contest.

Members made it to the honorary initiations, but some got lost on the way to the pledge formal.

The GWU Chapter of Phi Sigma Sigma received recognition in the form of the National Achievement Award and the Division Progress Award from the National Chapter.

"I must remember—Grandma said not to eat too much potato salad."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

It was a year like all years . . .

Full of these events which alter and inebriate our times.

The SAEs started this year with a newly-redecorated home and a strong pledge class. Brothers worked on Homecoming, Booster Board, the Student Handbook, the CHERRY TREE, and the Student Council.

In sports, SAE participated in Intramurals and sent several members off to the University's foot-, basket-, and baseball wars.

In three years fraternity scholarship has risen from the cellar to well over the all-men's average, and hopes are high for even more improvement.

Socially, the Christmas and Pre-Ocean City parties and the Spring Formal made for a highly-successful season. It was pretty swingin'.

Best Wishes from the UDCGTS, and the SAMC.

Sigma Chi

Friendship, Justice, Learning . . .

The Sigs found great success in scholarship this year, placing tenth out of 132 chapters nationally and winning their Province's scholarship award.

On campus, Howard Hill was named the University's outstanding engineer, and J. P. Donley was elected to Omikron Delta Kappa. Other brothers and pledges were active in debate, band, intramurals, honoraries, service clubs, the Hatchet, Student Council, and inter-collegiate sports.

The Sweetheart Dance and Derby Day added to the usual run of week-end parties.

Sigma Nu

It was just ducky—Sigmund N. Duck-y, that is.

Among Sigma Nu's pledges this year was a duck named Sigmund, whose antics gave great spirit to the social season—if not to his professors.

Though now gone, the loveable Sigmund will be long remembered as True Blue to Sigma Nu and a party lover.

Other SN's, more inclined toward sports and activities, participated in intramurals, Booster activities, and University affairs in general.

Dances, exchanges, and impromptus contributed to a good social season.

You know, of course, that I usually eat at the Faculty Club

Who says you have to have parties to have a good semester—

It was hardly a dull fall . . .

TEP took the largest pledge class of any fraternity this year and has come from six members to a resounding fifty.

In student activities, TEPs hold positions on the Booster Board and the Student Council, as well as the Presidency of Hillel.

The social season is highlighted by the annual Sweetheart dance and many exchanges and parties. Another event of interest was the inauguration of the new kitchen.

Phi Sigma Delta

Merger—and a fresh start.

The old Phi Alpha merged with and assumed the name of Phi Sigma Delta two years ago; since that time the chapter has moved up substantially in size, intramurals, and activities.

Members are in Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Theta Nu honoraries and are pushing for the fraternity's "Most Improved Chapter" award at the national convention, to which, incidentally, the GW chapter will be the 1961 host.

Alpha Eta Chapter of Kappa Sigma was founded at GW in 1897 and is one of 130 Kappa Sig chapters over the country.

This year the chapter moved into a new house at 1910 "G" Street, "Fraternity Row."

Members participate in intramurals, Boosters, and the general life of the University.

The TKE's are represented in intramurals, Student Council, the Hatchet, Campus Combo, and the Colonial Cruise.

This year, Washington Circle boys made Who's Who, Order of Scarlet, Omikron Delta Kappa, and Gate and Key.

Memories are made of—the Triangle Ball, casino parties, and the ever-popular TGIF's.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council is one of the most active groups on campus. Its primary functions are to promote good relations among fraternities and to set up and enforce rush rules. The fall activities began early with the IFC-Smoker and the IFC-Panhel barbeque for incoming freshmen. The highlight of the spring semester was the IFC Sing and Prom in March. At the Sing the individual fraternities competed for the coveted IFC trophies for the best singing group and the best Sing director. The Spring forum for officers pointed out common problems and solutions within the individual fraternities which promotes better relations understanding among fraternities.
